If you have a small electric plane or heli and still want to fly after the weather turns cold--you're in luck! We've made arrangements again this year for indoor flying at the Jefferson City YMCA. This facility offers a large area (4 tennis courts) for 3D and pattern flying and a separate, smaller area (2 half-length basketball courts) for micro planes and helis.

We'll be flying after they close and they've asked us to take the planes in and out through the back door (beside the swimming pool). As you face the front of the building, drive around the left side.

You can park in the small lot at the back of the building. If you arrive late and can't get in, a cell phone number will be posted outside during the event.
